

VIVIAN MURCIANO

A Brief Snapshot

Vivian Murciano was raised in Miami, Florida by her family, who fled Cuba's communist regime in 1962. As a child, she proved to be smart, quick-witted, strong-willed, and fiercely independent. She learned at a young age that if you want to achieve something in life you must work for it. Armed with that solid work ethic, she began her ascent up the corporate ladder within Fortune 50 companies as a Hispanic woman—from entry-level Sales Rep to Director of Sales and ultimately to Director of Marketing—never wavering in her resolve to become the best version of herself with each career step taken.

After a successful 30-year run in Corporate America (coincidentally, with 18 of those years based in Denver), Vivian entered the real estate industry full-time a decade ago when she reconnected with and married her high school sweetheart, Raul Murciano, in Miami. She became a licensed realtor in both Florida and Colorado, obtained additional licensing and certifications to further expand her skill set, and established strong relationships with like-minded partners. Her love for real estate grew as she helped more and more people realize their dreams of homeownership and achieve their financial goals. Vivian is a savvy negotiator, accepts and overcomes challenges, and makes the entire real estate transaction process as seamless as possible. This has led to her creating lasting trust and friendships with her clients and colleagues.

Beyond her current role as the Denver Managing Broker for Slifer Smith & Frampton and working with both land developers and individual homeowners, Vivian now enjoys serving on various artistic and philanthropic boards within her community. She is particularly proud of her work with the Colorado Opera's Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion board, and her current role this year as Co-Chair of the Nathan Yip Foundation's Gala Fundraiser. Vivian lives with her husband and Yorkie (Stanley) in the Denver area and enjoys entertaining at home.
